

Punto, Giovanni - 1. Concerto E-major for Horn

“This first Concerto in E flat major was first published in 1777 in Paris publisher Sieber. In the preface, emphasis is placed on the wrong in the past allocation of Antonio Rosetti and Carl Stamitz.

Giovanni Punto, or whatever his real name was Jan Vaclav Stich, on 28 September 1746 in řehuřice / Caslav 75 km southeast of Prague born. He was one of "the" great horn virtuoso of the 18th Century joins a well-known and visible in the many Bohemian musicians who fled from their home. His parents were serfs of Count Thun. This trick was trained on the horn. First, he had lessons with Joseph Matiega in Prague (with vocal training), then teaching at Haudek & Hampel in Dresden. 1768 engraving fled from servitude of Count Thun, calling both for camouflage and for better musical "marketing" Giovanni Punto. It was followed by a brief tenure in 1768 in Hechingen Hohenzollerischen services, from 1769 to 1774 he was working for the Elector of Mainz, then to 1780 employed in Würzburg from 1781 Punto played in Paris in the chapel of the Count d'Artois with lifelong pension guarantee. During the frz. Revolution 1795-97, he was orchestra director at the "Vaudeville Theatre in Paris. Left Paris in 1799. From 1769 Punto made numerous concert tours throughout Europe and founded his world famous. Punto Mozart heard during his stay in Paris and was impressed. In 1800 he gave concerts in Vienna and Budapest with Beethoven (Sonata op.17). 1801 Punto returned triumphant return to Prague. Giovanni Punto, died 2/16/1803 in Prague at the "hydrothorax", a time very frequent wind disease.”

